One of the more significant events of the school year was the brief appearance of a number of gremlins from that repository of miniature humanity, John C. Wood Elementary. The young'uns were here as a result of Governor Mills Godwin's decree closing all schools heated by natural gas. We will all remember the inconvenience, our only comfort being that the crowding helped warm an otherwise glacial room; but will we remember the cause of the episode: the natural gas shortage in two-thirds of the United States?

Indeed, how soon we forget. For twenty years, scientists and conservationists have been telling us that the fossil fuels on which we rely for nearly all of our energy needs are only deceptively abundant, that they will run out and only too soon. In 1973 we found ourselves waiting in line at the gasoline pumps for hours during the Arab oil embargo and found out just how close the oracles' predictions were. Four years later we still drive our gas guzzling cars; we still set our thermostats at seventy-two degrees; and we still drive half a block for a six pack of beer.

Americans seem to have very selective memories. We love nostalgia; the top rated shows on television, Laverne and Shirley, and Happy Days, are about the 1950's. We are also quite willing to spend millions of dollars on an investigation of the Kennedy assassination, an exploration that can have little bearing on our lives or attitudes whatever the outcome. Still, the disasters and tragedies of the 'fifties and 'sixties from which we can learn, such as the McCarthy era and the Korean and Viet Nam wars, are either forgotten or glossed over with pretences of good intentions.

There was a second significant event of our school year: the television adaptation of Alex Haley's Roots, which traced one American family from its origins in Africa to the Southern reconstruction. Roots made an important contribution to the American conscience in that it made us aware of our past, both in the heritage of the slaves, and the slave owners, the landed gentry and the share croppers, the possessors and the dispossessed. It has opened many eyes to the injustice of slavery, and has led to an examination of other injustices. Likewise, we should examine our own past, find our flaws and rectify them. The Danish poet Paul La Cour perhaps said it best:

"When he remembers
What he wished to forget
He speaks to the future."

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

W. Huffman

Student Government began its year adjusting to new administrative policies as well as the awesome task of representing 1800 students. Activities such as Freshman Orientation, welfare drive, youth conferences, national week, bloodmobile, town meeting, and the exchange trip with Madison were among the many benefits SG has provided us. Under the guidance of President Mark Donahue, and with the persistence of its members, SG's efforts resulted in an unusually productive year.

The Fair Facts staff is made up of the most dedicated journalists at FHS. Working everyday, the reporters, photographers, and editors combine skills to publish their impressions of the school. Every three weeks, the newspaper is distributed throughout the halls, and students find themselves more aware of activities around them from the unique writings of the Fair Facts staff. Whether it be late-breaking sports, administrative shakedowns, high school politics, or regular student life, the Fair Facts is on top of it all.

The academically competitive organizations of FHS bring honor to the school as they combine their mental powers and special talents against tough, reputable competition.

Debaters, coached by Mr. Ganley, discuss highly controversial subjects under pressure, trying like the forensics team, to master the art of the English spoken language. Members of the Math Squad use their knowledge to find solutions to difficult calculations while the It's Academic team compete to prove their knowledge in a wide variety of subjects.

VARSITY CHEERLEADERS

Though it seems that tradition and spirit here at FHS have changed some, the Varsity Cheerleaders try their best to keep dedication at its highest level. Twelve enthusiastic girls not only plan pep ralleys and other school functions, but together they lead the student body in supporting the athletes in their drive for victory. It takes hard work and confidence to cope with the abundance of work that comes with cheerleading, but the Varsity Cheerleaders meet their challenge with the best of themselves.

Drama, suspence, humor and music are all characteristics of the Thespian Troupe 2407 productions. Acting out a wide variety of roles, the thespians and their apprentices present plays and musicals from past and present. We have already seen these outstanding talents of these students under the direction of Mr. Slautich in the Thespians production of "The Inspector General". We look forward each year to Spring when once again the Thespians will delight us with another show of their talents.

Class of '80 Comes to FHS

Once again this year's rising freshmen arrived at Fairfax High School for Freshman Orientation. Equipped with a map of the school and a schedule of classes, the kiddies left to find their way through the unfamiliar corridors.

Freshman Orientation has basically remained the same, and of course upperclassmen are still the same. For Sophomores, the new freshmen are a chance for revenge, and the Juniors and Seniors do their best trying to convince Freshmen that the bathroom is on the third floor, just outside the elevator.

After a brief discussion in the auditorium (right), and a chance to talk with some of their teachers, (lower right) the rising ninth graders were served refreshments in the cafeteria by the Cheerleaders. (below).

A Show Of Our Spirit

T. Gauthier

T. Gauthier

On Friday, October 8, the Peppy and Johnny Court was introduced at our traditional early fall assembly for this first of FHS' annual courts. The excitement and anticipation associated with Peppy and Johnny brought a heavy crowd to the game. Tensions rose during halftime as the drums began to roll; with a crash of cymbals, Sue Price (Peppy) and Framk Mello (Johnny) had won. But the names of the most spirited teachers were still to be announced — Lord and Lady Fairfax, Miss Chris Joyce and Mr. Tommy Tudor, who will wear their proverbial crowns until next fall.

The Devil and Catch-22

M. Suthard

When you think about it, most of humanity's sins have been committed by men who believed that they were doing right, and most of our wars have been started by men who thought they had no other alternative.

In a letter to Bishop Creighton in 1887, Lord Acton said that "Absolute power corrupts absolutely." What must the burden of a president's power do to one man's mind?

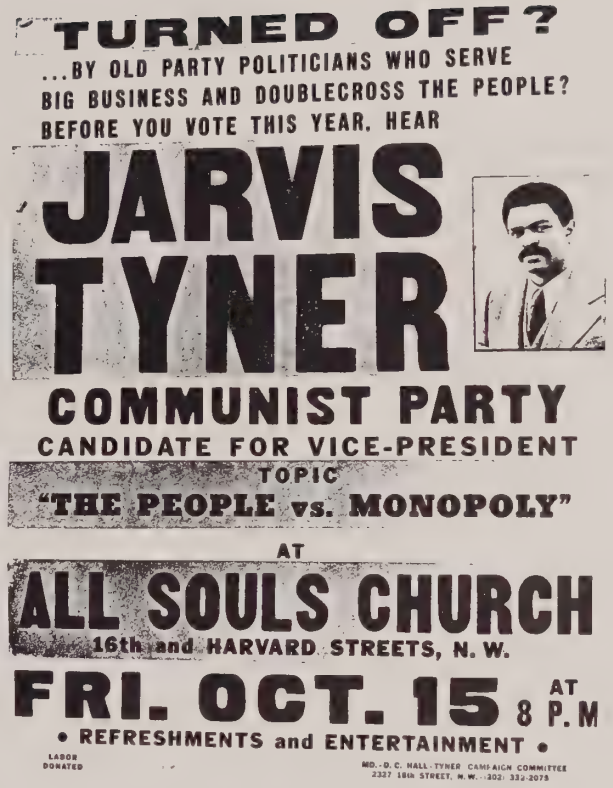

Lyndon Johnson said that the Presidency makes good men out of small men and great men out of good men, but no matter how good you are, you can never be big enough for the job. Richard Nixon, in the last several months of his incumbency, used to say, "I can walk into a room and push a button and in twenty minutes, seventy million people will be dead."

If you can imagine what it would be like to shoulder the responsibility of deciding whether just one man lives or dies, then you can imagine the stress of playing God to a nation or a world. Nixon cherished his little black box — even as he left the White House on the morning of his resignation, he said repeatedly, "But I'm the one who has the black box. He's not President yet." But Nixon's assumption of the power behind the black box after having yearned for it so long, made him crazy. He wasn't in reality. Holding the Presidency made him think he had to save himself above all else, that he was the country.

This writer's intention is not to defame Richard Nixon, but to make the point that Nixon was a good President until the power he held corrupted him. Whatever other plans Nixon might have made, he did not carry them out because whatever it is in pure power that corrupts, got to him.

Nixon is no exception, however. Consider Franklin Delano Roosevelt, who took power with the New Deal. He didn't do anything to stop the Depression that wouldn't eventually have happened without his holding the Presidency. Instead, Roosevelt became obsessed with the exercise of power. Through his manipulation of governments and individuals — his reduction of Congress to a puppet, his attempt to stack the Supreme Court, his cultivation of the media, his shoring up of the executive branch — Roosevelt expanded the powers of the Presidency until he became almost a dictator by his last term. In fact, it was FDR who laid the foundations of what we call the Imperial Presidency, the ideological precedents for Eisenhower, Johnson, Nixon.

In Joseph Heller's Catch-22, hell is the state of mind in which a person who is doing wrong can, by rationalization, convince himself that he is doing right. The Devil is, then, that being who removes our sense of value — who can trick us into selling our souls by making us believe that hell is a very long way away.

Wrong isn't right, of course, and so long as we can remember that, and acknowledge that we are wrong when we sin, we are fine. Perhaps the problem of the Presidency is that power leads its holder to believe that there is no wrong, to rationalize sin into virtue.

Nixon engineered Watergate out of self-protection and rationalized it as protection of the American people, protection of the executive branch, of the Presidency. Johnson continued our involvement in Vietnam because he thought he had no way out. Carter's problem now is to avoid losing his sense of right and wrong: to keep from being intoxicated with the power inherent in the Presidency. If he can, he may well be the best President we've had, no matter what else he may do.

Spring Swing

Spring Swing Court: Helen Gehman, Anita Gensch, Sara Glidden, Sue Gorton, Molly Grimsley, Karen Linden.

M. Suthard

Spring Swing is an annual dance sponsored by Pep Club. The Court is selected from the members of the Pep Club. The dance, held this year, on April 16, was a semi-formal guy-ask-girl, girl-ask-guy affair. The theme was "Saturday in the Park."

Pep Club has been besieged with many problems this year. They searched to find their suitable sponsor Mrs. Pieper. Working frantically in the Fall, they managed to produce a float even though they had many problems. Due to administrative objections, Spirit Week was not held. In order to pay for Spring Swing they sold green carnations for St. Patrick's Day.

FAIRFAX

MR. DRAYER BECOMES PRINCIPAL

Mr. Clarence P. Drayer, Fairfax's new principal, has been a teacher and an administrator for more than twenty-five years. After graduating from George Washington University, he received his Master's Degree from American University. He has served in the Army and has taught English, government, U.S. History, and geography at Thomas Jefferson Junior High and Washington and Lee.

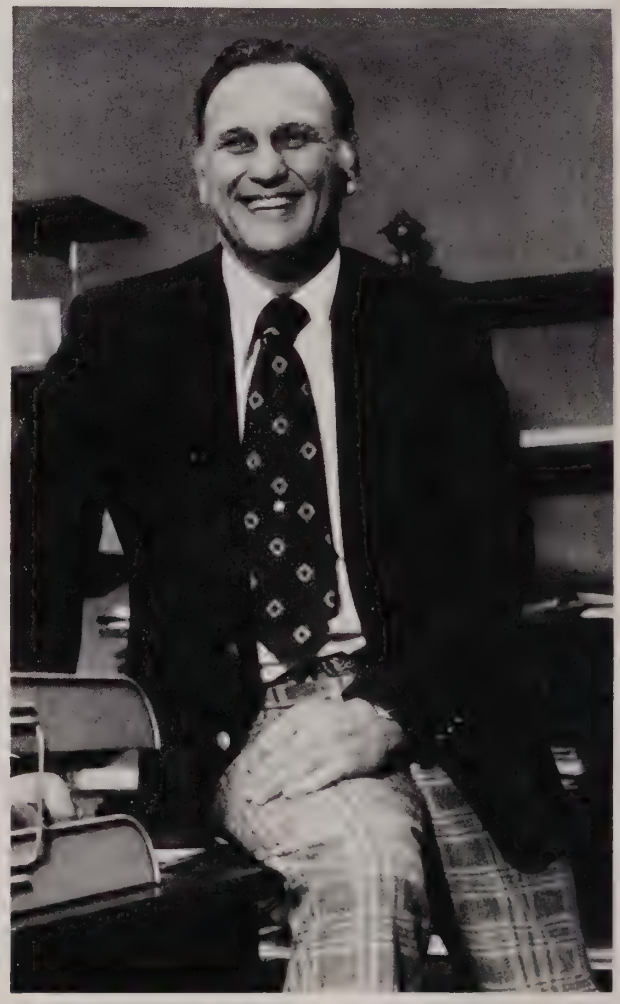

Mr. Drayer has also served as an Assistant Principal at Kenmore Junior High, Stratford Junior High, Marshall and McLean high schools. For the five years previous to his principalship at FHS, he was the principal at James Madison High.

Since Mr. Drayer has been principal, a few changes have occurred, especially in school administration. FHS has been divided into two houses. This change is intended to improve student services and to make students feel that they can talk with their counselors. In this way counselors can get to know students better.

Memo From Hampton's Principal

Rennie C. Coleman, Jr., Principal

Maezene Walker

To maximize learning it is extremely important that each pupil be assigned to those classes, programs, and activities that meet his individual needs. Such opportunities are developed to insure individualization and dignity. These, however, must not be gained at the expense of someone else.

In Hampton House, we realize that laws and rules tend to become ends in themselves when they were intended as guides to mankind. We strive to apply them to their intended purpose.

While there may be problems with no apparent solutions, Hampton House is dedicated to the individual.

Rennie C. Coleman, Jr.

The reorganization of the school into two houses for student management has the express purpose of seeking closer identification between administration and students. Each House has been assigned counselors, administrative assistant, and a secretary.

Hampton House (Grades 9/10) takes its name from the location of the first free public school in the Commonwealth of Virginia which opened in 1871.

Underwood House (Grades 11/12) takes its name from the name of the State legislator who authored Virginia's revised constitution (1871) mandating "Free Public Instruction."

Mrs. Margaret Jochem, who teaches 11 / 12 English, will retire in June. She has taught for thirty years, and has been at Fairfax since January, 1964. She once worked for the now defunct Hartford Newsdaily, the first offset-print daily publication in the United States. She worked in the Folger Shakespeare Library for three years, where she was around many of the world's preeminent scholars, but quit because, "I wanted to get back into the classroom and bully the kids into learning about noun clauses." Listening to Mrs. Jochem describe her experience at Fairfax, one gets the distinct impression that she enjoys a very real sense of achievement. "Kids come back to thank me often enough to make me think it's been worth the struggle."

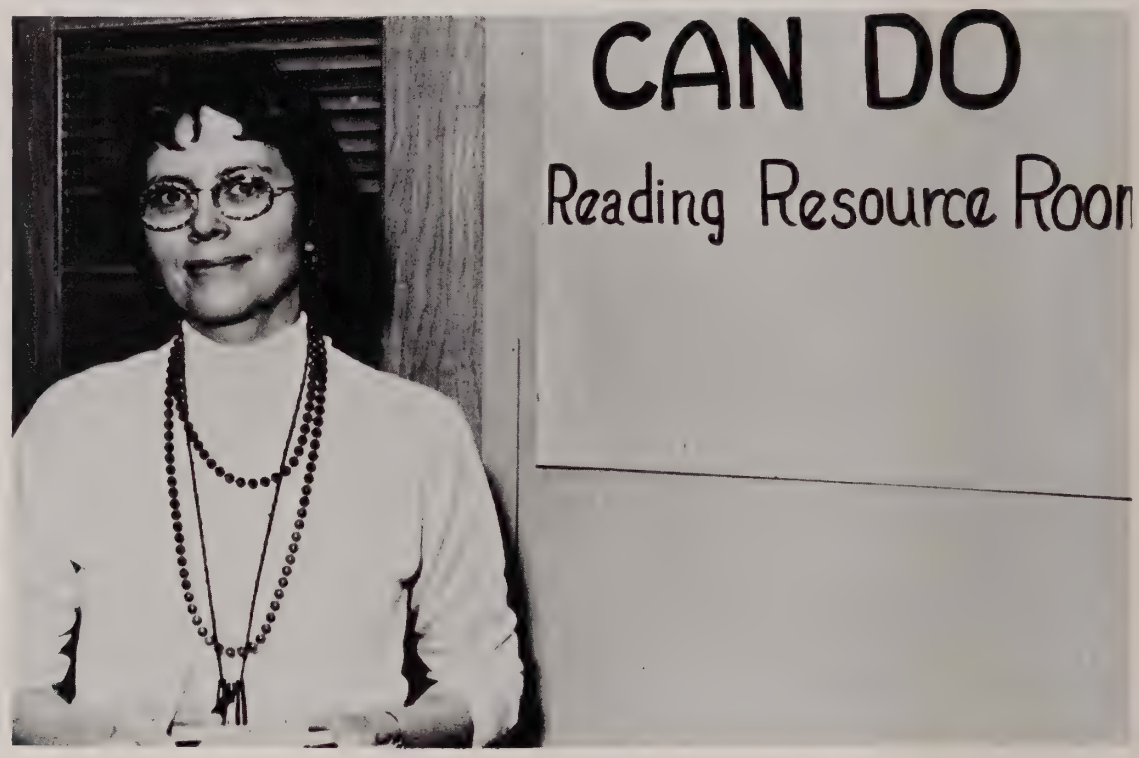

Mrs. Jochem holds a B.A. in English, Social Studies, and foreign languages from the University of Southwestern Louisiana, and an M.A. in English and education from the George Peabody College for Teachers. In 1966, she spent a summer studying linguistics at UCLA. She also studied Hebrew for a summer at the Princeton Theological Seminary. Since 1974 she has studied New Testament Greek privately. After she retires, Mrs. Jochem plans to continue her study of Greek and Hebrew, and of the Bible in its original languages.

Having lived two years in Rangoon, Burma, where her husband was a Foreign Service Officer, and having visited Europe and Asia, she is eager for further travel.

In 1966 her life took a dramatic change when she came to know Jesus Christ as her Saviour and Lord. She wears a Star of David as a member of the Star of David Club, which supports a radio outreach of the Messianic Jewish Movement International. She is also an interested member of the 700 club, a television ministry of the Christian Broadcasting Network. She has volunteered several summers in a local Christian bookstore. In addition, activity in several Bible study and prayer groups fills her time between readings in the Christian life. Good luck, Mrs. Jochem, and good-bye.

We are thrown together by fate
We are wary and point to our differences
And far too easily we accept conflict as the natural order.
Would it not lend quietude to our lives if we now,
With love, began to dwell upon our similarities?

We look ahead with fear and anticipation for we know not what lies ahead, but we are eager to explore.
We look behind with sadness and warmth
for we know that yesterday is gone forever, but we still have the memories.

Frosh girls flaunt it for Seniors

Look at us, Freshmen. We came to Fairfax just as confused as the previous Freshmen did. The complexity of the school stunned us, and this year was spent organizing and establishing ourselves in the system.

We had a typical Freshman year: we got lost, tried to find the elevator, had an unfinished float, and sold doughnuts. We have three more years to gain confidence, experience, and to find ourselves. Next year we'll be Sophomores: "Wise Fools."

THE MARINE CORPS RESERVE

can put it all together for you
A special 85-Day Program is available for high school seniors who desire to go on to higher education. This means that you can earn a minimum of 850 dollars per year, obtain excellent on-the-job training, leadership experience and still attend college or trade school. Call us at Area Code 202 433-3612. We will be happy to fill you in on the details, and if you desire, we will talk to you and your parents together.

Well, we've finally reached our last year of high school. We recall our high school years with fond memories. The three M's of our four years at FHS: Making grades, Making friends, and Making . . . . We Cheered our teams on to victory with enthusiasm. In our freshmen year, we suffered the usual persecution from the upper classmen, the fruitless search for the escalator, and had our triumphant cheer of "FRESHMEN!" drowned out by upper classmen screaming "EAT IT!" We lost the homecoming float competition but came back and won the spirit week locker hall decoration competition.

We started our Sophomore year in the midst of controversy. The Washington Post declared the use of the Confederate Battle flag as our school symbol to be unfair to the black students in the school. In later article the Post inferred that all Fairfax students could be categorised as jocks, freaks, homecoming queens, cheerleaders, or partying band wallies. By December the controversy had died down and we again won the spirit week competition proving that the Class of 1977 was Number One.

Decisions, decisions, our junior year was filled with them. In the fall, we ordered our rings after much consultation with parents and friends. We also suffered through the P.S.A.T.'S. Throughout the whole year we worked frantically to raise enough money to put on the prom. We sponsored bake sales, car washes, movies, and dances; sold mugs, socks, and license plates. Under the direction of Larry Forsythe, many hard working people made the June 12th Prom a success at the Sheraton International Hotel. Finally, in April, we received our rings. We rushed around getting everybody to turn our rings, saving the 77th turn for a very special person. We were always careful to open doors with our right hands in the air.

In our senior year, we anticipated with great excitement our graduation on June 3. As each day passed by, it became harder and harder to complete our homework or even to get to class. The Senior Slump had set in with a vengeance by January. Our senior year was expensive. We or our parents had to pay for College Boards, college applications, graduation announcements, senior pictures, cap and gown.

We look forward to our college years with apprehension and excitement. For we don't know what to expect but throughout our lives, we shall always recall our high school years with regret and sadness that they are over.
